

Austin Jones

615-962-3732 — ajones53.aj@gmail.com — ajone239

Skills

---

Techs: Docker, K8s, AWS, gRPC, ARM MCUs, Xilinx FPGAs
Admin tech: GitHub, Jira, GitHub Actions, Azure, Agile
Languages: C, Rust, C#, C++, SQL, .NET, Shell, Python, VHDL

Work Experience

---

|                        |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Current —Jan 2024  | Uster — Knoxville, TNMake applications and solutions for textile grading devices.Software Engineer (C#, WPF, C++, C, ASP.NET) <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Deliver an app for aggregating and statusing state across large sites.</li><li>• Inherit internal app for facilitating the manufacture of products.</li><li>• Organize efforts relating to employee purpose and culture.</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                                            |
| Nov 2023 —Jan 2021 | PolySign — RemoteCollaborated with teams across products and stacks to build out features for a Digital Asset Custodian in the Crypto market.Senior Software Engineer (Rust, Python, YAML, C) <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• Contributed to Escrow feature of Python microservice back-end to meet customer demand.</li><li>• Performed Dev-on-Call rotations debugging live issues across multiple environments.</li><li>• Stood up and integrated a distributed signing network.</li><li>• Organized a company wide hackathon and an engineering reading club.</li></ul> |
| Aug 2021 —May 2021 | Garmin International — Olathe, KSEmbedded Software Intern (C, Python)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |
| Nov 2021 —Jan 2019 | Siemens Molecular Imaging — Knoxville, TNElectrical R&amp;D Intern (C#, C++, VHDL)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      |

Personal Projects

---

|          |                                                                                                               |
|----------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Mar 2026 | PaddleA simple Scheme-like Lisp interpreter.                                                       |
| Jan 2025 | ABC NotepadA React Native app for CBT-style journaling.                                            |
| Dec 2024 | My blogA Svelte 5 static site for me to put posts and articles.                                    |
| Dec 2023 | Mechanical KeyboardsMake custom keyboards from soldering to customizing firmware . |

Education

---

University of Tennessee Knoxville      Graduation: Dec 2021
Bachelor of Science in Computer Engineering      GPA: 4.0/4.0
Graduated top student of the John D. Tickle College of Engineering.

Interests and Hobbies

---

- Custom Mechanical Keyboards, Personal Projects, Writing
- Chess, Go, Reading, My Book Club, Cooking, Specialty Coffee
- Rock Climbing, Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu, Cycling, Running